The Santa Barbara Police Department is confirming a letter announcing the mobilization of the National Guard is fake.

The department became aware of a letter circulating throughout the community that appeared to be from the National Guard warning of a federally imposed quarantine of two weeks. The letter stated the National Guard will close all businesses and require residents to stay in their homes to invoke the "Stafford Act."

"The Santa Barbara Police Department has reached out to the California National Guard and the California Office of Emergency Services -- both agencies deem the letter FAKE," stated Public Information Officer Anthony Wagner.

A copy of the fake letter is provided below:
